

Hospital Authority asks guarantee for $2.95 million

To qualify for a low-interest hospital loan, the Georgetown Hospital Authority will ask the City Council this month to hold a $2.95 million bond election — but new taxes are not a part of the GHA proposal.

The Hospital Authority decided Thursday night that it is unable to meet the "community participation" requirement for a Farmers Home Administration loan without a tax-backed guarantee on repaying the debt.

Although revenues from the new hospital are expected to be more than enough to make the debt payments, the Hospital Authority was urged by the FmHA to turn to the city for extra support for a new hospital in Georgetown.

JAY SLOAN, GHA president, explained that when the city begins to repay the debt to the FmHA, it will have three times the amount of debt service reserves from hospital assets to make the annual payments.

"All of our projections say that the debt can be repaid without ever using tax money," Sloan said. "But to meet this FmHA requirement, we need a political subdivision with taxing authority to back us up.

"By proposing a bond election, we'd be asking the city to endorse the new hospital project, to 'co-sign' the note. But it is very unlikely that the city taxpayers would ever be called on to use their tax dollars to pay off the debt."

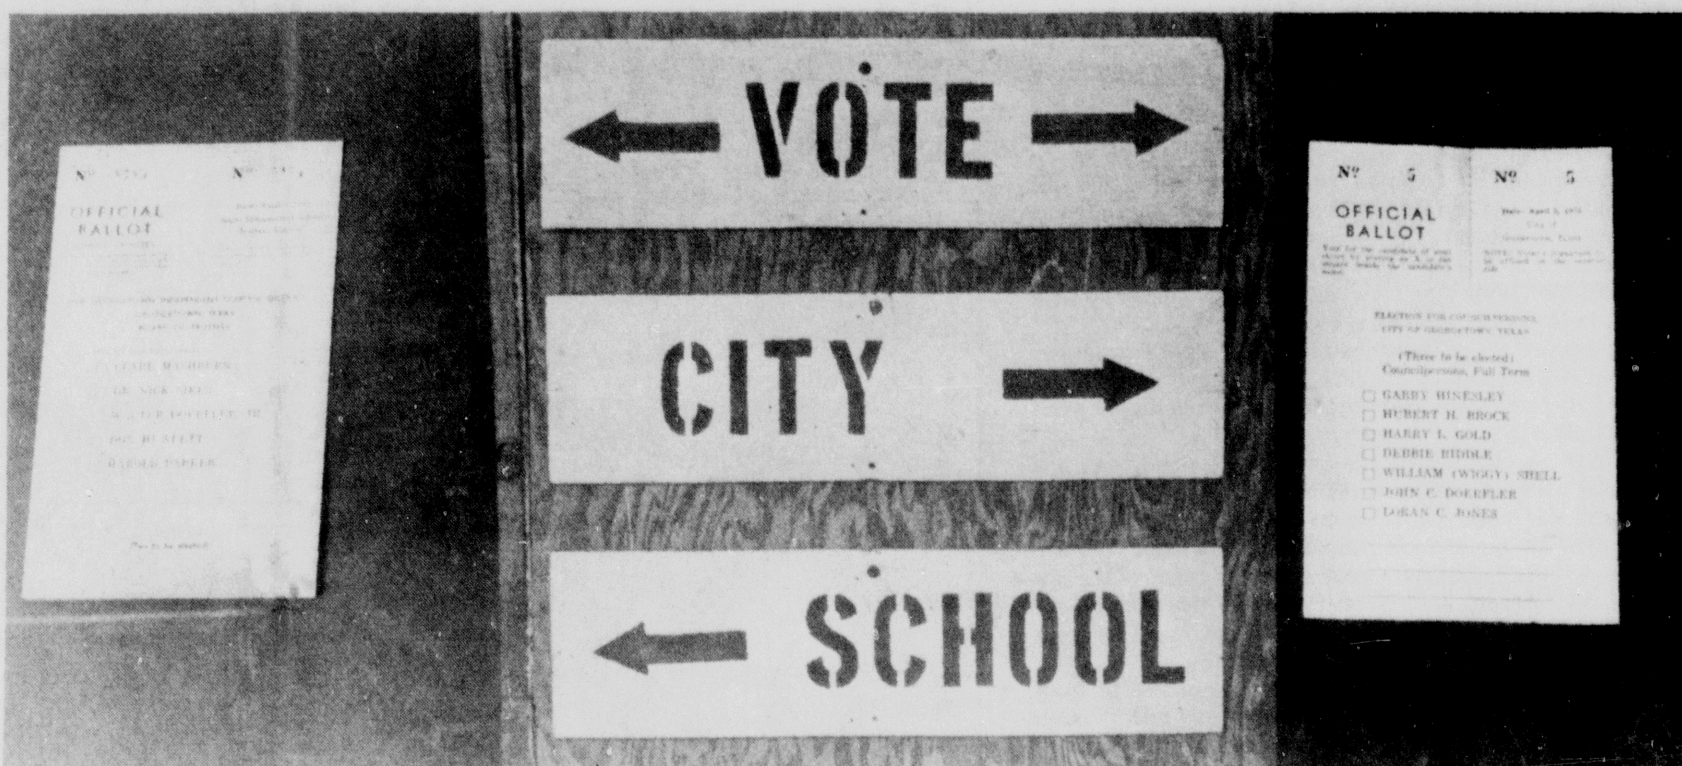

THE HOSPITAL AUTHORITY unanimously passed a motion to ask the City Council for a special meeting to discuss the possibility of putting the case for a new hospital before the voters.

Sloan and Ken Poteete, hospital administrator, will draw up and present statistics on the proposal.

The GHS president noted that if city voters approve the bond program and agree to back up the loan if necessary, then when the hospital debt is paid off, the medical facility and its revenues will belong to the city.

Although new taxes are unlikely to result from the bond proposal, there is one drawback, Sloan said. The FmHA loan might adversely affect the city's bond rating because on paper, it would in-

Programs assist senior citizens

By Beulah Gilbreath

When a person reaches age 65, how does he or she manage to live on an income of a Social Security check of less than $300 per month?

It is difficult and different elements of the community have realized this and are attempting to alleviate some of the problems of the elderly.

Two local pharmacies give discounts to all persons 60 years or older for purchases of non-prescription drug needs.

Grocery stores have been contacted about some type discount for senior citizens, according to Community Action Agency Assistant Director Flogene Ebeling.

According to a recent "Christian Science Monitor" article, discounts to the elderly is a grassroots trend in cities throughout the nation. New York, with its population of 1.4 million people over 60, probably offers more dollar stretching (as well as dollar spending) opportunities than any other city.

New York offers:

- Free tuition at any city university.
- A one dollar charge for first-run movies in the city.
- Admission to Yankee Stadium for 50 cents.
- Reduced fees for museums, operas, and a show at the Planetarium.
- Reduced fares on all city buses.

Activities

Georgetown has its own method of meeting the recreational needs of its senior citizens.

Other than activities planned by local retirement centers, the Stonehaven Center, 1704 Hart Street, sponsors daily recreation for senior citizens.

The activities range from a rhythms exercise class each Thursday to daily domino and "42" games. Initial funding for the activities came from the Governor's Committee on Aging.

Other activities include an "over 50's dance," china painting, and covered dish luncheons twice a month.

Another Senior Citizens Activity Group, a program of the Community Action Agency, was recently organized and meets in the Community Center in San Gabriel Park each Thursday afternoon. At this time, the women in the group are making quilts which they plan to sell at the Old Georgetown Market Day. Proceeds from the sale will go for field trips and other activities for the group.

Week of grace to subscribers granted

Monday is tomorrow and April 7 comes on Monday, which is the final day to Save-a-Buck on a SUN renewal.

Actually, as all our old subscribers know, we always have given a few days of grace and this year will be no exception. If your renewal comes in any time this week, in fact, by April 15, you can still write your check minus the buck.

After that date we will send out statements to those who haven't renewed and, at this writing, we are hoping the list will be very short. We figure that it takes us at least a dollar to sort out the delinquents, get envelopes and statements made up, pay postal costs for mailing and a return-addressed envelope. This is the philosophy behind our Save-a-Buck campaign, which has been most successful for the past ten years. Very few subscribers have ever received a statement from us during that period. They Saved-a-Buck every year!

The handy coupon is in the ad on page 6 of this issue. Won't you clip it out, fill in your name and address and mail it to us, with check enclosed? Time is just about fled.

"You won't believe this, Mrs. Ingram," Gerald Peyton, manager of Piggly Wiggly said on the telephone last week, "but you have won the jackpot again!"

SHIRLEY, LIKE OTHER PW customers, had put her name in the $100 jackpot box, and Peyton's call was to let her know she had won twice in as many weeks.

Shirley, who is Mrs. Charlie Ingram, was embarrassed. It took her a couple of days to work up enough courage to go claim her money and she determined she would give it some worthy cause. "I just felt guilty about winning twice," she explained.

On Easter morning, which followed the day she picked up her winnings, she and Charlie went to the early service. Immediately afterwards she sought out the Rev. Tom Granger and gave him the money for his Good Samaritan Fund. "Take it quick," she urged Tom, "old Satan worked on me all night long!"

SOUTH VIETNAM has the third largest air force in the world. Just what it is doing, why it isn't bombing the heck out of North Vietnam, is a big mystery. In fact, I don't know that it has accomplished anything in the past but I can predict its future. In just a few months North Vietnam's air force, which isn't worth mentioning now, will be the third largest in the world.

'Partnership in Progress'

To raise $50,000 for Southwestern

The "Partnership in Progress" campaign for Georgetown and Southwestern University officially begins here Monday as some 60 volunteers seek to raise $50,000 for operational expenses at the University.

A significant sum has already been pledged on the eve of the kick-off, according to Major Gifts Chairman William Eanes and Campaign Co-Chairman J. H. "Buster" Compton and J. C. Sloan.

They met with the steering committee Thursday evening at the University to lay final plans for the two-week campaign.

Campaign leaders pointed out that while Southwestern is currently completing its $10 Million Program for Progress, virtually all of the money raised in this campaign is designated for physical improvements to the campus or for endowment.

Since Southwestern underwrites about 50 per cent of the total cost for each student enrolled, any gift to endowment is important, the leaders emphasized.

"However, we face today a critical need for gifts to help pay the bills, to assist in enabling us to furnish proper remuneration to our loyal employees in difficult economic times, to maintain our building and grounds in order to prevent later, more expensive renovation or possible replacement, to take care of the myriad everyday expenses with which every business and every household is faced," says Dr. John Van Valkenburg, vice president for university relations.

Campaign co-chairmen pointed to the more than 100 years that Southwestern and Georgetown had been "partners in progress", and they emphasized the impact that the university has on the community, including these points:

-Southwestern University supplies employment for 255 people.

-Of the $3,750,000 annual operating budget, $2,100,000 are paid in salaries and benefits.

-In addition, the University spends approximately $300,000 annually with or through Georgetown businesses.

-The University endeavors to use local labor and services whenever economically possible.

-Of the 255 employees of the University, approximately 80% are homeowners.

-The 905 students enrolled spend an estimated $700,000 in Georgetown annually.

-One hundred and thirty young people from the Georgetown area are students at Southwestern.

-There are 485 alumni of the University living in Georgetown and the immediate vicinity, adding much to the professional, business, civic, and cultural life of the area.

Eanes, Mrs. Douglas Benold, Campaign Chairman J. H. "Buster" Compton, Don Scarbrough, and John Van Valkenburg. Not pictured are Dr. Douglas Benold, J. C. Sloan, Dr. Hal Gaddy, Mayor Joe Crawford, and Harry Gold.

The sneakiest device which Congress employs to get you to pay for something you don't want is to hide the appropriation as a "rider," an addendum to some totally unrelated money bill.

FOR EXAMPLE, members of Congress who wanted to help corn, wheat and cotton farmers had to vote yes to a bill which also provided food stamps to strikers.

Then there was the "upholstery needle bill," which had to do with lowering the tariff on upholstery needles. That bill was saddled with 12 different riders — things as unrelated as changing taxation on real estate investment trusts and granting tax-exempt status to certain political organizations.

I recall the Cambodian bombing bill was wrapped up with payments to Social Security recipients.

Congress and its committees and its legislative practices have become so cumbersome that the next government scandal is likely to emerge from that morass at the "other end" of Pennsylvania Ave.

TWENTY YEARS AGO the Senate and the House had combined staffs of 5,600 people; today 16,000.

The staffs of congressional members have grown six times faster than the numbers of people they represent.

Congress' ability to spend money on itself is one of the few government powers neither checked nor balanced by our Constitution. Congress alone decides how much of your money to appropriate for its own operations.

Recently, the House created another committee to study the problems of the aged; the House already had 21 other committees with some jurisdiction in that area.

IT'S PRUNING TIME on the Hill, but Congress keeps planting instead.

One reason for the proliferation of committees is that each new one gives some congressman a larger staff which can be diverted to publicizing himself.

The environmental movement has been great for this purpose, so Congress has six new subcommittees in this field.

If all this malignant expansion of activities resulted in improving efficiency it might be justified; on the contrary, Congress in 1973 wrote 247 new laws — 10 fewer than in 1963 when its staff was half present size.

Congress' public approval rating last year, 21%, was lower than Mr. Nixon's lowest.

There is no proper overview of congressional operations, no surveillance to encourage efficiency.

THE GENERAL ACCOUNTING Office (GAO) has some authority over executive agencies; it should have authority to identify extravagance, waste, duplication in all government operations. As is, it does nothing to correct the mysterious overstaffing practice. The House recently tripled the number of professional employees on committee staffs. And the House, comparatively, is the "poor rent district" on the Hill.

After the last election a bunch of lame duck congressmen took off on taxpayer-paid vacations abroad, a flagrant abuse of public money and public trust.

Every excess is its own undoing; Congress will prune itself or be pruned.

Speed on 29

One highway where the 55 mile speed limit is a total stranger lies between Georgetown and Circleville, a curving race-track for, especially, those titanic trucks that move across the mid-stripe when they come barreling around the turns at 70 miles per hour.

THAT'S HIGHWAY 29, of course, the scene of numerous wrecks and a not-so-recent death, all consummated at a high rate of speed.

We realize that our State Highway Patrol is limited in personnel and is unable to enforce the speed laws on a continuous basis everywhere. Too, there is no doubt that the main concern is in holding down traffic speed on the major highways. Nevertheless, a little tighter and tougher stance on the state roads would also be helpful.

Entrance to Georgetown from the east, on highway 29, sees many cars and trucks traveling 60 miles an hour as they come onto University Avenue, a definite threat to lives and property for several blocks. This, of course, could be handled by city police officers and their little zapper!

OBSERVING THE 55 MILE per hour speed law is no longer a matter of whether one is willing to pay a fine and suffer a black mark on his insurance policy. It is also a national objective of conserving gasoline and reducing an increasingly dangerous outflow of currency for foreign imports, as well as most important of all, conserving human lives.

Rates headed up?

Did you notice this week that the dollar gained strength in European money markets and do you wonder why?

THAT'S BECAUSE Europeans know that the huge outpouring of federal money, to be brought about by the government's rebate program voted into law recently, will again drive interest rates upward.

The moral to this story is that right now, not three months from now, is the time to borrow money for whatever purpose. The "prime" rate in New York and other large banks presently is 7½ per cent. If the Europeans are right and they often are concerning American money trends, the rate will be right back up to 10 or 12 per cent before this year ends.

PROSPECTIVE BUYERS of new homes got a big boost in the bill. They will be able to take 5 per cent of the price they pay for a new home off their income tax payment next year. In other words, the government will be donating up to $2,000 to help them buy a home and get the nation back into a fast home construction program.

Schwertner elects officers for community improvement

About 40 Schwertner residents gathered for a Community Improvement Program meeting Thursday night. Stanley Schwertner and Mrs. Tommy Krueger were elected co-chairmen of the campaign to upgrade the town.

Mrs. Betty Schwertner was chosen as secretary and Mrs. Mildred Tomecek was selected as treasurer.

The group agreed to meet on the first Thursday night of each month to plan community improvement projects.

For information on joining, call Mrs. Krueger at the Schwertner Bank, 817/527-3987.

Several committees were organized to consider projects in fields such as community beautification, home living, boundary lines and signs, health, roads and utilities, churches, recreation and youth, and education and schools.

One of the many projects suggested is to get Schwertner's voting box re-established.

Another primary project is to clean up the town and surrounding areas and possibly set up a park.

Other projects discussed during the meeting included improving existing buildings, planting trees and shrubs, organizing a monthly trash pick-up, and encouraging new families to move into the area.

The dues to join the Schwertner Community Improvement Program are $1 per person.

The program is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Electric Utility Companies.

It is set up to stimulate individual, family and community effort toward community improvement. The objectives are to make rural life more profitable and stable as well as more desirable and satisfying.

Stuart Long Austin Notebook

By STUART LONG

AUSTIN — A dozen men, sitting around the imposing prison-made horseshoe table in the Lieutenant Governor's Committee room, talking quietly about whether $183 million of businessmen's money should be spent.

That was the scene the other night when three senators met with what they frankly call "the interest groups involved" to talk about a stack of bills on workmen's compensation insurance.

There was the freshman senator from Wichita Falls, Ray Farabee, chairman of the subcommittee, presiding over the session in what was obviously well-informed fashion about the intricate details of the laws which provide how injured workers are to be paid. His colleagues were Senator Oscar Mauzy of Dallas and Bob Gammage of Houston.

There was Jim Yancy, the man-in-Austin for the Texas Manufacturers Assn., and beside him was George Nelson of Lubbock, sitting in for the Texas Trial Lawyers Assn. To his right was J. J. McCuan, the member of the Industrial Accident Board which administers the workmen's compensation insurance program. To his right was Tony Koriath, like Yancy a former legislator. Koriath, formerly from Sherman, is also a former member of the Industrial Accident Board, now in law practice in Austin. He has served as counsel to a special Senate committee on workmen's compensation and sat in on the meetings of President Nixon's Commission on Workmen's Compensation Insurance which has proposed nationalization, or at least Federal regulation, if states do not meet higher standards of benefits to those hurt on the job. And then there is John Rogers, a former newspaperman, now representing the Texas AFL-CIO in the meeting, as one of the organizations top executives.

"You are talking about $183 million a year of my people's money," Yancy said, just to start the conversation about the pile of proposals Sen. Mauzy has introduced. And it did lead to talk.

It was interesting to note that the insurance company representatives in the room were not at the table talking. They were sitting quietly, listening. It all just means more dollars for them to handle if benefits go up, so the companies traditionally take no part in the arguments over workmen's compensation law.

Those arguments used to be on the floor of the Senate and House. But a few years ago, efforts got started to get "the interest groups involved" together, and the result has been vast improvements in the system of delivering medical care to those who are hurt on the job. Less of the money goes now to court costs and legal fees, and more to the man with the broken leg or the gouged-out eye.

This time, Yancy is dragging his heels hard, saying "we've got a $472 million program. We ought to give it a chance to operate. Some of these are $1 million-a-year bills. Put them all together and it is only $346 million annually, a record tax bill on the employers of Texas."

A second package bill, SB 823, was milder, only $183,460,000 a year to start, and rising with inflation, he estimated, adding, "and times is hard."

McCuan urged an increase in funeral benefits from $500 to $1,500. "We are seeing $1,000 and $1,200 bills come in from these widows, and they can't pay them," he said. He also wanted to require replacement of prosthetic devices when they break down. Some insurance companies do replace them, he said, but others are not progressive.

Rogers warned that members of Congress are pushing for a national law because states are not updating their laws as they should. He said injured men's families are trying to survive on $70 a week, and urged benefits of what he was making before he was hurt.

They went through the list of bills, discussing them all. Yancy would provide the price tag, and again and again got in a plug for his big goal — to allow employers to be self-insurers as governmental agencies have been. The insurancemen in the room glanced at each other over that one.

The "interest groups involved" didn't agree on anything. They'll talk again this week, to see what, if anything, they can agree on for the Legislature to vote on.

AUSTIN—Constitutional revision, widely regarded as an almost impossible task for the legislature this year, may be moving along faster than any of the session's "big three" items.

Revision panels of the House and Senate voted out proposals almost identical to the document which failed by three votes in the 1974 Constitutional Convention. Education finance reform and utilities regulation have not moved so far so fast.

Senators brought up the plan Tuesday (April 1) for floor consideration on an article-by-article basis.

The House is expected to follow the same procedure.

A two-thirds vote will be necessary on each article before it can be submitted to the voters for approval or rejection in a statewide election next November.

None of the controversial "separate submission" items like right-to-work—which split and doomed the 1974 convention—are included in the present resolutions.

Apparently, if article-by-article revision fails, the legislature will offer a plan for a new citizens' convention to try its hand at revision next year.

PRIMARY ADVANCES

Drive for a Texas presidential preference primary gathered momentum in spite of some stubborn opposition from political convention-oriented liberals and George Wallace supporters.

The Senate State Affairs Committee gave its approval to a revised and improved version of the House-passed primary bill, and quick Senate passage was anticipated.

The measure still calls for a vote in May on presidential candidates who decide to enter the Texas primary. Seventy-five per cent of the state's presidential nominating delegates will be named on a senatorial (or congressional) district basis. Another 25 per cent will be selected in state party conventions in accord with the percentage of the vote various candidates received in the primary.

An objectionable feature of the House bill which would have required candidates to file slates of delegates in all 31 senatorial districts to get on the ballot at all was removed. Liberal provisions also were made for uncommitted delegates to run individually or as a slate.

SPEED LIMIT SAME

Legislators finally agreed on, and the governor signed, legislation extending the 55 miles per hour speed limit to comply with federal policies and save $303 million a year in federal highway aid.

A threatened deadlock was quickly broken in the face of threats of heavy loss of federal funds. The present 55 mph law would have expired April 1.

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals held a cashier in an El Paso bookstore could not be convicted for sale of an obscene magazine after being declared innocent in sale of an alleged obscene film in the same transaction.

Texas Supreme Court turned down a Panola County man's contention that he was defrauded of royalties when producers drilling on his property did not tell him or the Railroad Commission of an oil strike in the Burnett Sand of Travis Peak reservoir.

The high court upheld a Waco Court of Civil Appeals ruling that a Hamilton County property owner was entitled to $7,500 damages from a company which allowed turkey feathers to cover his land and runoff water to pollute his wells and troughs.

AG OPINIONS

Campaign contributions made after an election are defensible under the penal code, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

Poll watchers cannot be paid from labor union dues.

A school, under the open records act, should make public names and addresses of students' parents and guardians on request.

Prisoners in federal correctional institutions may demonstrate Texas residence for college tuition purposes if they intend to remain in the state after release.

County commissioners may create new justice of the peace precincts from existing precincts and appoint the j.p. to fill a vacancy.

Adopted and illegitimate children may not be excluded from the free State Infant Immunization Program.

Rural fire prevention districts may provide emergency ambulance services.

Draft registration terminated, JP says

President Ford has issued a proclamation that terminates present registration procedures for the Selective Service System, Georgetown Justice of the Peace Bill Hill announced.

April 1 was the last day 18 year-olds in Williamson County were required to register for the draft at JP Hill's office.

This is the first time since August 31, 1948, that men will not be required to register upon reaching their 18th birthday, Hill said.

Although registration is being terminated at this time, new procedures providing for periodical registration are being developed and will be tested at a later date, Hill noted.

He said the Selective Service System will continue to carry out its mission on a "stand-by" basis and will continue to classify men in accordance with current regulations, and maintain a "pool" of available manpower for the military as a part of the overall Emergency Preparedness Program of the Nation.

Hill pointed out that Selective Service has sufficient men registered and classified to continue the First Priority Selection Groups through the end of 1976. The First Priority Selection Group for 1976 will be those men who were born in 1956. These are the men who would be called first should Congress renew the induction authority because of a national emergency.

Colonel Melvin N. Glantz, state director for the Selective Service, expressed his sincere appreciation to the more than 1,600 volunteer registrars who have served without compensation in all communities of Texas. "Their willingness to assist in this public service, giving freely of their time, has shown that they have done their best to keep America a strong and free country," he said.

President Ford's proclamation was dated March 29. Hill noted.

The public is cordially invited to participate in this time of inspiration and renewing.

Texas purchased $20,183,108 in Savings Bonds during the month. Year-to-date sales totaled $43,473,714 for 18.5% of the yearly sales goal of $234.3 million.

Police to haul away cars with '74 plates

If your license plates are in the red, you'd better be on the look-out for the 'boys in blue.'

The Georgetown Police Department has issued a warning that beginning April 14, the department will tow away any vehicle with 1974 plates that is parked on a city right-of-way.

To get the vehicle back, the owner will have to pay a wrecker fee and a storage fee.

People with cars displaying out-dated license plates are urged by the department to keep their vehicles off city property.

Included in the official Police Department statement is an offer to anybody with a car that no longer runs.

The department has agreed to arrange to haul away disabled vehicles and dispose of them free of charge.

All the car owner has to do is call the Georgetown Police Department (863-5552 or 863-5553) or the City Building Department (863-6665) and ask for the service.

The owner of the vehicle will be required to fill out a release form before the junk car is hauled away.

Liberty Hill School Board meets Monday

The Liberty Hill School Board will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria to canvass the election returns and choose a new board president, vice-president and secretary.

In other business, school trustees will decide where to put the sidewalks for the new Liberty Hill High School.

Superintendent Bud Perry explained that the contractor for the complex is responsible only for installing sidewalks to connect the two education buildings and to lead from the high school to the street.

Trustees will select routes for other sidewalks and walkways on the campus.

Board members will also consider the employment contract for the Liberty Hill School District tax assessor-collector.

Trustees will discuss establishing a committee of school board members to revise school policies. Perry said that the guideline for teachers and administration are "several years old. In some instances, the policies are entirely outdated and no longer followed."

The Liberty Hill PTA executive committee and the PTA piano committee have requested time to address the school board at Monday's session.

Southwestern Sinfonietta, Schroeder previously taught at the University of Texas at Austin for eight years and the Cincinnati Conservatory. Liberty Hill's 10% interest on back taxes called illegal Texas state law prohibits the Liberty Hill School Board from increasing the annual interest rate on delinquent school taxes from 3 percent to 10 percent, Superintendent Bud Perry said Thursday.

Last month, a divided school board voted to implement the interest rate increase. Perry was instructed to check the legality of the proposal with a lawyer.

The superintendent said this week that the proposal is not legal.

"State law specifies that a 3 percent interest rate on delinquent taxes is as much as the school district can charge," Perry said.

He said he received his information from a tax attorney in Austin.

The attorney's opinion on the matter will no doubt stir up controversy with the school board on what to do next with delinquent school taxes.

In the vote to increase the interest rate to 10 percent, two trustees abstained, three voted in favor of the proposal, and one trustee opposed the motion.

AN OPEN LETTER:

The Georgetown area residents have good reason to be proud of their community theater. The Georgetown Area Community Theater's relatively short history has shown its ability to present many different types of shows. The latest production, "Count Dracula", played to capacity audiences in its final performances on March 21 and 22.

This production was a significant achievement in the history of GACT. Frances Springer's fine direction brought out excellent individual and group achievement by the cast and crew. The setting, special stage, sound and lighting effects, and the outstanding acting performances gave ample evidence that the Georgetown Area Community Theater is growing in stature and importance.

Rehearsals for the next production, "Because Their Hearts Were Pure", have already begun under the direction of Gin Dodson. This melodrama will be presented in May and will show another facet of this group's abilities.

Some 20 months ago, when Capital Land Title Company agreed to sponsor the theater facilities, we knew but one member of GACT, who informed us of the need for such a facility. Her recommendation and a prior experience with such a dedicated and hardworking theater group in another city gave us the feeling and faith that this, too, would be a rewarding experience. We felt that such a group needed encouragement and assistance in our town. So, with this basic knowledge of the kind of people involved in theater work, we recommended that our firm help and provide GACT a "home."

The result has been most gratifying, for with successful productions to its credit, GACT is coming of age.

If you have not experienced the magic of live theater in our town, we encourage you to be sure to see the next production. It's amazing how much local talent there is here.

To those of you of any age who read this brief message, let us personally encourage you to become a member of GACT and get involved in one of the productions in any capacity. The personal reward will be gratifying and the fellowship and companionship of working with other dedicated people will bring untold satisfaction.

The Georgetown Area Community Theater is a venture for the whole family... whether it be acting, working with stage crews, costuming, or participating as a member of the audience. It takes a lot from a lot of people to have and keep a successful community theater. This area has one that has made its mark, but nothing is so good that it can't be better. GACT gives you an opportunity to make it better.

Sincerely yours,

Gene Hargett

65 reference books added to library

Reference materials on the above subjects were included in a 65-book shipment received last month by the library.

Two other thought-provoking titles included in the new additions to the library shelves are: Feasting Free on Wild Edibles and The History of Ghosts, Vampires and Werewolves.

County to host Australian man

A visitor from Australia will tour east Williamson County this Monday.

J. V. Martin will be a guest of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Welcoming him to the area will be John Wakefield, local county agent, and other Extension Service officials.

Martin will be especially interested in learning about sunflower crops in Williamson County. He will tour the Stiles Farm at Thrall and participate in a conference with Calvin Rinn, the manager of the Stiles Farm.

Officers to sponsor benefit for deputy

Williamson County law enforcement officers will sponsor a benefit barbecue and dance in Georgetown next month. Proceeds will help defray the medical expenses incurred by William Chandler, a local sheriff's deputy who was severely injured in an automobile accident in March. The benefit will be held May 2 at the Georgetown Community Center in San Gabriel Park. A beef barbecue will be served beginning at 7 p.m.; a dance featuring two local bands will follow.

Tickets will cost $5 per person and will include the price for the barbecue, dance and refreshments.

The tickets will soon be available from police officers, constables and sheriff's deputies in Williamson County. Sheriff August Bosshard, chairman of the benefit, explained that money from the barbecue and dance will pay for some of Deputy Chandler's medical costs.

Chandler was in intensive care for several days in Brackenridge Hospital after a car wreck late at night about three weeks ago. Bosshard said.

The deputy is now at home in Georgetown and is "improving," the sheriff added.

7 indicted

A Williamson County man was indicted on a murder charge Wednesday afternoon by a 26th District Court grand jury in Georgetown.

Absentee voting continues on constitutional election

Absentee voting in the constitutional amendment election started April 2 and will continue through April 18, Williamson County Clerk Dick Cervenka said Friday.

The proposed amendments are:

□ A proposal to provide for a maximum state contribution to the state retirement systems of 10 percent of the aggregate compensation paid to individuals.

□ An amendment to increase legislators' salaries from $400 to $600 per month with a per diem of $30 during legislative sessions and a mileage allowance.

The election will be held April 22.

Cervenka noted that absentee voting can be done either in person or through the mail by registered voters who will be out of the county on that date.

"To vote absentee by mail," he said, "you must be out of the county during the entire absentee voting period, or you must be physically disabled."

All other absentee voters must cast ballots in person, he said.

For information on voting, call the county clerk's office, 863-3585.

The first proposed amendment would increase state participation in the retirement system for retired state employees, a spokesman for Representative Dan Kubiak's office said.

"As it is now, the state's contribution into the retirement system is tied to how much the employee put in. In most cases, this has been insufficient to keep up with inflation."

The second amendment was already turned down by voters once, the spokesman noted.

Blackleg kills county cattle

Williamson County ranchers were warned Friday to vaccinate their herds against blackleg, an infectious and contagious cattle disease.

County agent John Wakefield said that in the past 10 days, about six animals were killed by blackleg.

"Ranchers are encouraged to protect their cattle by immunizing and vaccinating against the disease," Wakefield said.

Blackleg commonly strikes calves that are 4-6 months old. Wakefield urged vaccinations be done while the animals are 3-4 months old.

He said ranchers should contact their veterinarians for answers about blackleg.

Library circulation exceeds 1974 pace

The Georgetown Public Library loaned 3,348 books during March, according to the monthly report delivered to the Library Board of Trustees this week.

The March library activity pushed the circulation total for the first three months of 1975 to 10,209 books — 526 books higher than the 1974 first-quarter figure.

According to the report prepared by librarian Verne Philpot, the main public library in Georgetown loaned 3,271 books last month. Seventy-seven books were also loaned from the branch library at the Stonehaven Community Center.

The 3,348-book total for last month was less than the February total (3,533 books) but more than the March, 1974 figure (3,108 books).

So far this year, the Georgetown Public Library loaned 3,328 books in January, 3,533 books in February, and 3,348 books in March.

Mrs. Philpot said that 155 books were donated to the library last month and 192 books were purchased.

Also, the library received $140 in gifts and memorials.

In other business at the library trustees' meeting, the Library Board decided:

• To invest the $13,000 in the library savings account in a certificate of deposit, to draw higher interest for the next 2½ years. The interest will be used to buy more books for the library.

• To investigate the possibility of sponsoring a photography exhibit and contest at the library in Georgetown. Board President Harry Gold agreed to meet with three prominent Austin photographers to discuss what the exhibit and contest would involve.

Board members present at the meeting Wednesday were: Joyce Gaddison, Henry Valdez, Everett Williams, Harry Gold and Charlene Hollon.

Pie eating contest scheduled Sunday

Outside on the lawn if the weather is good, otherwise in the Fellowship Hall.

Those are the location instructions for the pie eaters of First United Methodist Church saving up appetites for the big Pie-Eating Contest at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the church.

Sponsored by the Youth Department, the profits will be used for a work project.

Each church family is being asked to donate two pies and the contestants will pay $1 entry fee.

Pies will also be sold, whole and by the slice.

Palace giving birthday passes

That is what those who register at the Georgetown theater will receive in the form of a free pass to the show on their birthday — all free, no strings attached, just go to the theater during its showtime hours and register name and birthday.

This birthday celebration is the Commonwealth Theaters' 45th anniversary.

Those who register — young and old — must show proof of birth. It can be a driver's license, birth certificate, baptismal certificate, family Bible or a personal verification (no notes, must be in person) from parents.

These will be kept in a permanent roster at the Palace Theater and free pass birthday cards will be mailed to the honored guests.

"Register now, this begins immediately," said Palace manager Willie Goff.

$2097 collected during March

Georgetown Municipal Court collected $2097 in fines during March, according to the court's monthly report to the Texas Civil Judicial Council.

The report, completed this week, shows that during the month, 98 parking misdemeanors were filed and 48 parking misdemeanor cases were disposed of.

Also filed were 63 traffic misdemeanors and 16 non-traffic misdemeanors.

In 58 traffic cases and 15 non-traffic cases, fines were paid before the case was brought to trial, the report states.

Dispositions at trial included: Traffic: Two were found guilty, two found not guilty, and three dismissed.

Non-traffic: Three found guilty and one dismissed.

Linda Collings heads Newcomers

The First Thursday Newcomers Club of Georgetown recently elected officers and named Linda Collings president.

Other officers include Harriet Rea, first vice president; Nancy Raper, second vice president; Karen McAden, secretary; Karen McMaster, treasurer; Linda Koprowski, parliamentarian; and Jeannette Damman, historian.

The next meeting will be on May 1 — a 'Show and Sell' meeting in the fellowship hall of First Baptist Church, climaxed with a salad tasting luncheon.

The nursery is conveniently just next door.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

A proposed School Bond was overwhelmingly defeated (by five to one) last Saturday in a nearby school district. The school now being used has lasted over half a century, and it is undeniable that this building has served everyone very well. It is hard to understand how so many people could be opposed to something that will help so much in the education of their students, as well as the entire citizenry of the community. It is our deep desire that there will be other action taken to see that this community is not the victim of the damage that will inevitably come with the removal of their SCHOOL!

We in Liberty Hill can point with pride to the fact that a school bond proposal has never been defeated by our people; I AM TRULY PROUD!

In 1966 the people of Liberty Hill cooperated, as we have done so often, to bring about the installation of a very fine Mercury Vapor Street Lighting System. Since our community is not incorporated the support of this Street Light System is by necessity DONE ON VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTIONS. Many people who were in on the original planning have contributed very faithfully, but the increase in the cost of the electricity is causing the need for more contributors. These lights, either directly or indirectly, benefit everyone in the community, and their cost is very small compared to the great good that they do.

A current statement showing the status of the Street Light Fund is as follows: Balance on February 28, $201.18

Deposit on March 4... $103.00
Paid out (March 5, service 1/1-2/1) ... $121.68
Balance on March 31... $182.50
Paid out (for service) from 2/1 to 3/1 ... $122.29
Balance on April 1... $60.21

The new residents of our town are urged to contact J. H. Wilson, Mrs. J. H. Wilson or Mr. Jim Burnett, and become involved directly in the support of our EXCELLENT STREET LIGHTS — "KEEP LIBERTY HILL LIGHTED!"

The Junior High School Boys and the Junior High School Girls Track Teams were in Rogers Friday, April 4, to participate in their Invitational Track Meet that was held for both Class "A" and Class "B" in the area.

The MENU for the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria for the week of April 7 - April 11, is as follows: MONDAY — Frito pie, pinto beans, lettuce and tomato salad, pineapple chunks, and milk; TUESDAY — Italian spaghetti, lettuce and tomato salad, peach half, bread, cake, and milk; WEDNESDAY — Roast and gravy, potatoes, green beans, rolls with butter, Jell-O, and milk; THURSDAY — Chicken and dumplings, spinach, beets, bread, Lemon Bisque, and milk; FRIDAY — Hamburgers with lettuce, tomatoes, pickles and onions, French fries, ice cream, and milk.

A belated Easter Trip, thanks to the weather, to the Sulphur Springs Fishing Camp at Bend, Texas, which is managed by my brother-in-law and sister, Jimmy and Mary Johnson, Debra, Diane, and Donna, gave me much pleasure, in addition to the unexpected opportunity to meet several very interesting people. Among the people I met was Bob Milligan and his mother, Elsie Milligan, the owners, and Bob "Red" Smith. "Red" Smith is a free-lance author whose sports articles have been published in Field and Stream and other sports oriented publications. This man lives in Austin from which he travels collecting the information he uses in his writing. If you have not met him, you have really missed something!

Newcomers contribute $75 to Booty's film

The First Thursday Newcomers Club of Georgetown has contributed $75 to Linda Graves' fund to preserve the beauty of the Booty's Crossings on film.

The donation was approved by the club's executive committee last month, Linda Collings, president, said Thursday.

The fund will finance the production of a 30-minute color film of the San Gabriel River as it winds through the Booty's Crossings. The area will soon be changed by the construction and preparations for the North Fork dam.

Mrs. Collings explained that the contribution was a unanimous decision.

"I live in the North Fork subdivision, and I know how beautiful this area really is," she said.

"My daughter is just five years old, but when she grows up, I want her to be able to remember how the Booty's

Crossings looked — peaceful and beautiful.

"A film like the one Linda Graves is planning will help jog my daughter's memory when she gets older," Mrs. Collings said.

Besides the Newcomers Club's donation, the Georgetown Rotary Club and the Ecology Volunteers have made contributions of $300 and $250 toward the film.

Dianne Koenig, a professional film producer, has been contracted to do the project for about $3000.

The film would be kept in the local library and would be free to the public, Mrs. Graves noted.

For information on making a contribution, call Mrs. Graves at 863-5040.

She also asks residents of Williamson County who have stories and memories about the Booty's Crossings to contact her.

Georgetown show aired at Ft. Hood

Families on the Fort Hood Army Base got a taste of the Georgetown community this week when a slide show produced by the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce was aired over the television station on the base.

The show was seen by about 67,000 people Tuesday.

Gene Martinka, Chamber manager, said he arranged to broadcast the audio-visual production "to familiarize the post with Georgetown."

After the 9-minute slide show, Carol Paul gave a 5-minute presentation on the upcoming Old Georgetown Market.

Captain Steve Lassiter,

Leander Elementary Intermediate, Junior and Senior High School Menus

Monday, April 7 — Chili dogs, French fries, catsup, stuffed celery, cake, 1/2 pt. milk

Tuesday, April 8 — Homemade pizza, green beans, tossed salad w/dr., cookies, 1/2 pt. milk

Wednesday, April 9 — Oven baked fish, catsup, creamed potatoes, cabbage slaw, chocolate cake, hush puppies, 1/2 pt. milk

Thursday, April 10 — Tacos with grated cheese, taco salad, pinto beans, banana pudding, 1/2 pt. milk

Friday, April 11 — Cheeseburgers, French fries, catsup, garden salad, cookies, 1/2 pt. milk

Board discusses Chamber events

Plans for three upcoming events were discussed this week by the board of directors of the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce.

• Clean-Up Week is scheduled April 14-18. Civic and service groups interested in contributing their time and effort to the clean-up project are asked to call Bill Edmiston, 863-5739.

For help in moving large and bulky items, call the Chamber of Commerce, 863-2251.

The Chamber, with the help of Georgetown and Williamson County officials, sponsors the clean-up campaign each year to give citizens a chance to throw out items of trash too large for the regular pick-up.

• The deadline to submit nominations for Miss Georgetown 1975 is April 14. Civic and service clubs have nominated four candidates for the title so far.

Miss Georgetown will be selected on April 27 at the Student Union Building on the Southwestern University campus. The ceremony will begin at 2 p.m. Judges for the contest are from Austin.

• Forty-two booths have been reserved so far for the Old Georgetown Market, April 19, in San Gabriel Park. The Chamber of Commerce expects a deluge of booth reservations in the next couple of weeks.

Clubs and individuals who plan to sell wares at the market are urged to contact the Chamber of Commerce office, 114 West 9th Street, 863-2251.

April is Cancer Control Month

April is cancer control month. Statistics indicate that 53 million Americans alive today will eventually have cancer. All of that number won't come from Williamson County, but the chances are that some persons in the area will be counted in that total.

Lives might be saved because of early detection and prompt treatment. The theme for the 1975 educational and fund-raising Cancer Crusade during April is "We Want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime." The promise of research is great, and dedicated people in the laboratories, the men, women and children suffering from cancer today, and hopes for the future depend upon the willingness of people to support the cancer fight.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Victor Knauth, Crusade chairman for the Northwest Williamson County Unit of the American Cancer Society, and Mrs. Leo Wood, the Georgetown Crusade chairman, many volunteers will visit residents and businesses in Georgetown, distributing information about cancer. The volunteers will ask for support of the Cancer Society's vital programs on behalf of research, public and professional education and service to the cancer patient.

Music workshop at Southwestern

"Music and Christian Education" will be the general theme of the Christian Education Workshop to be held at Southwestern University Monday through Wednesday, April 7-9.

Leading the three day program will be Roger Deschner, minister of music of the First United Methodist Church of Houston.

Workshop sessions will be held at 8 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday evenings and at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday morning in the Religious Activities Center at Southwestern.

Any interested person, in addition to Southwestern students and faculty members, are invited to attend any of the sessions. Admission is free.

"Mr. Deschner is uniquely qualified to lead this workshop," says Dr. Norman Spellmann of Southwestern's Dept. of Religion and Philosophy. "He has edited Sing Unto the Lord and has written numerous articles on music and theology for Music Ministry and Motive."

Deschner has also published a music curriculum coordinating music and church school studies for first and second grades, and published HALLELUJAH, a book on worship for Junior High School young people.

Currently he is completing a book on The Methodist Hymnal which analyzes hymn texts in relation to key theological terms.

As Dean of the Texas Conference Choir Clinic in 1964, Deschner led the reorganization of that institute into what is now the largest choir clinic in Methodism, serving more than 500 children, young people and adults each summer. He also prepared and directed the music at national student conferences and is a frequent lecturer on church music, the history of musical instruments, and electronic music.

Georgetown to observe Week-of-the-Young-Child

Georgetown Mayor Joe Crawford signed a proclamation, Friday afternoon, declaring April 6-12 as Week-of-the-Young-Child. The signing ceremony took place at Mary Bailey Child Development Center.

Open house will be held throughout the week at the center, which teaches children ages three through five. Visitors are welcome to come any day next week and observe classes, said Francis Sires, center director.

Rabbit Hill Ranch Kountry Kindergarten will also celebrate the week by taking the children who attend its classes on field trips.

The younger children, ages two and three who have been studying farms and farm animals will take a trip to a farm.

Children, ages four and five, will tour the Butter Krust Bakery in Austin.

The week, which is sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children, is observed nationwide.

Young children at Mary Bailey and Rabbit Hill will be observed by classes from Georgetown High School and Southwestern University.

Garden Club Flower Show set April 25

The Georgetown Garden Club met April 5th in Stonehaven Center, with the business meeting under direction of Mrs. Jim Adkins, president.

Mrs. Robert Poole, Garden Show Chairman, presented final plans for the spring flower show. It will be held April 25 in San Gabriel Center, San Gabriel Park. The theme for the 30th annual Spring Flower will be "America - Clean and Green".

In addition to member entries there will be a section for men only - and a good showing from Georgetown men gardeners is anticipated.

Also there will be a non member section in which any interested gardener may enter. Mrs. W. K. McClain, program chairman, discussed "Abstract and Not-So-Abstract Flower Arrangement" illustrating her talk with a lovely arrangement.

Mmes. Frances Mayo and Merle Weir presented a Bi-Centennial report.

Tea dainties and punch were served by the hostesses, Mmes. Harry Taylor Jr., Jim May and Herschel Shepherd.

Any Age
Cancer doesn't respect birthdays, it can strike young and old. But, explains the American Cancer Society, folks over 40 should especially remember to have an annual checkup including cancer tests. One of the "important" tests is called a "procto" and it's used to detect a very common form of cancer, colon-rectal cancer.

Church name is changed

The name of the Pond Springs Pentecostal Church of God has been changed to Revival Temple, a Pentecostal Church of God, the pastor, Rev. Norman Fikes announced this week.

The church is located on the Anderson Mill Road at Highway 183, 1 1/2 miles south of highway 620. The congregation numbers about 50, with the slogan, "The Country Church determined to win a city."

A yard sale at the church on April 19 will help finance the redecorating of the interior of the church, and future plans include the remodeling of the outside of the building, the pastor said.

Plan A extends a hand to handicapped students here

The Williamson County Co-op for Special Services provides the educational tools for 1600 students with learning disabilities, Margret Oliver, co-op director, explained recently.

"This program is obligated to serve every handicapped person from age 3 to 21 in the county — and that's exactly what we do," she said.

The co-op was organized in 1970 through the efforts of County School Superintendent Ben Rosenblad, Jr., the Texas Education Agency, and the Education Service Center in Austin.

Plan A, a new concept of comprehensive special education, was approved as the key program for the cooperative in 1972, Mrs. Oliver said.

"What we have here is a program that works for the complete integration of the handicapped in the school system and in society at-large," she noted.

The cooperative itself was a creative means to bring Plan A to this area.

"In order to get state funding for a Plan A program," Mrs. Oliver said, "a school district must have an average daily attendance of 3000 students."

"Not one of the 11 school districts in Williamson County — with the possible exception of Round Rock — has an ADA large enough to meet this requirement."

"But, through the co-op, all of the school districts in the county were allowed to pool their ADAs, which gives the county a total average daily attendance of about 12,000 students."

The Co-op for Special Services, operating on a budget of about $1 million provided by the state, enables all of the districts in Williamson County to share a Plan A program, Mrs. Oliver said.

MARGRET OLIVER
—Plan A director

Through the co-op, there are about 80 special services teachers stationed in the school districts in the county, she said.

Plan A developmental programs provide opportunities and funds for the co-op to:

- Offer appraisal service for educational plans.

- Provide supplementary instructional materials.

- Employ supportive personnel and utilize para professional personnel.

- Utilize all students in computing the school district's average daily attendance.

Without the co-op, a school district could not include special education students in an ADA count.

- Secure the services of consultants for in-service training and program assistance.

- Utilize special transportation and purchase special seating when needed.

- Implement the instructional arrangement that best meets students' needs.

- Encourage partnership between the school, parents and the community.

A special services teacher can serve in three capacities, Mrs. Oliver said. "She can be a resource teacher, to whom a child can come to once a day for extra help; or a helping teacher, to work in the classroom with the children; or a consulting teacher, to give advice to the regular classroom teacher."

Through the Williamson County Co-op, a professional staff of 16 skilled members can circulate among the school districts.

This program provides each school with the services of such professionals as a speech therapist, educational diagnostician, and a vocational adjustment coordinator.

In addition, the co-op helps school districts set up kindergarten programs for the handicapped, and provides learning materials — shared by each district — to assist the handicapped.

The vocational adjustment program of the co-op places students in jobs in the community for a half day, Mrs. Oliver said.

"We try to equip each student so that he or she will be able to transfer to a job after graduation," she added. "In some cases, a student might work all day at a job under the vocational adjustment program."

Vocational planning in the Plan A program starts when a student is about 16 years old, Mrs. Oliver continued.

"The co-op joins hands with the Vocational Rehabilitation Commission to find jobs and keep jobs for the handicapped, because after the student is 21, the co-op no longer has the authority to work with a handicapped person."

"One of the major problems is that our students are always the first to be laid off whenever economic times are bad. So when we train a person and help him find a job, it's not enough that he is average at the job — he has to be good at it."

Besides providing for the handicapped students who attend school, the co-op also attempts to meet the needs of the "bed patients. There are about 20 students we serve who are so severely handicapped that they cannot make it to the classroom."

"We contract with special personnel from the Travis State School to serve these students at their homes."

In addition, the co-op provides pre-school training to handicapped children who are 3 or 4 years old, Mrs. Oliver said.

The board of directors of the Williamson County Co-op is composed of the 11 school superintendents in the county. Ben Rosenblad, county school superintendent, is the chairman of the board.

Mrs. Oliver, director of the co-op, is responsible for the administration and coordination of Plan A.

The Plan A program is headquartered in the county school superintendent's office.

Mrs. Oliver noted that the Williamson County Co-op is committed within its basic philosophy to:

- Recognizing that special services are needed in Williamson County.

- Respecting the existing variances of capabilities.

- Believing that children who are handicapped can be contributing American citizens.

- Offering the best possible educational opportunities to each pupil.

- Committing special services as a supplement to school curriculum.

- Providing new approaches to improve educational programming.

- Contributing cooperative team work as the key to Plan A success.

- Developing and implementing a 5-year plan for special services.

- Evaluating attitudes, efforts, products and programs.

- Cooperating and sharing for the benefits of serving all students in need of special services.

DO YOU RECALL.....

THOSE WONDERFUL YEARS...

They shall abundantly utter the memory of thy great goodness... The Lord has blessed us with children and now grandchildren. Our lives, and now theirs have been molded in the church. One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts. Pass on this priceless heritage to your children and grandchildren.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Newcomers show spring fashions

Georgetown ladies turned out in capacity numbers Thursday for the annual First Thursday Newcomers Club Style Show and Luncheon in the Southwestern University Commons. They enjoyed an elegant lunch prepared by 'Sarge' and her staff and saw the latest in spring and summer fashions from Dor-Rin's modeled by the Newcomers members.

Clare Mashburn, style show narrator, introduced Clara Scarbrough who will next week receive the Texas Historical Commission's 1974 Award for Best Historical Publication on a Regional or Local Level. The award is for Mrs. Scarbrough's history of Williamson County, Land of Good Water. Clare used excerpts from the book to set the theme of the show.

Pictured on this page are samples of the many fashions which were shown.

Ann McKay wore a Lew Wilkes creation of voile in earth colors cinched with a wide belt and featuring a swingy skirt, and a scarf to match or contrast in today's high fashion. And, according to Clare, "This is the way we used to dress, with hat, gloves and high heeled sandals — the whole bag!"

Eva Carroll was elegantly dressed in a jacket dress by Ann Murray, in pink rayon and silk.

Jodie Steger modeled the easy look of a red pajama with a pull on print top alive with color.

Linda Koprowski was a model of new looks, both in clothes and in Linda. She has just lost 71 pounds and looked NEWCOMERS STYLE SHOW LUNCHEON — at Southwestern University Commons Thursday drew a full house of fashion conscious ladies. They heard Clare Mashburn narrate the show using excerpts and facts from Clara Scarbrough's award winning book, LAND OF GOOD WATER, to set the theme. Pictured here, Lynn Burnette models a country suburban Galey and Lord with a solid shirt jac and coordinating plaid blouse, and a longer skirt which can be interchanged with pants. Fashions were from Dor-Rin's and the models' make-up was done by Nan Swindoll at the new Merle Norman Studio next door to Dor-Rin's in Lakeaire Shopping Center.

Ben Richter 'toys' with his pastime

Every cloud has a silver lining, except the one belonging to Ben Richter. That's made out of wood.

Richter was disabled by a heart attack in 1972. After an operation in the spring of that year, doctors made one point clear: Hard work would probably kill him.

Not one to sit idle, Richter took up a hobby. And since then, he turned it into a very successful pastime.

Ben Richter is a woodworker and toymaker — and he probably devotes more time to those activities than any other person in Williamson County.

"I didn't start working at this hobby until about 1½ years ago," he said. "Since then I've made several hundred toys and kitchen goods."

He makes all kinds of them, too.

At his son's Guarantee Electric store in Georgetown, Richter has 40 different samples of work on display.

"They include nativity scenes, airplanes, all kinds of trucks, children's toys, antique cars — and everything's made by hand out of wood."

He also specializes in such items as towel racks, spice racks, salt and pepper shakers and candlesticks.

What makes Richter's woodwork unusual is that he never starts with a written-down blueprint or pattern.

"I almost always design an item as I go along," he said. "Then, if I like it enough I'll put some of the dimensions on paper so I can duplicate it."

Occasionally, he'll copy something he sees in a store window.

"I'll just look at it, keep the pattern in mind and wait 'til I get home," Richter said. "And then when I walk into my wood shop, I recall exactly how that item looked, and make a replica as close as I can."

He spent most of his career as an electrician. The only time he had done any woodwork at all was when he worked as a maintenance man for Southwestern University in 1955.

Richter lives with his wife Hildgard in a home north of Georgetown on Route 2.

He got into the woodwork business through the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, which helped him purchase the necessary equipment.

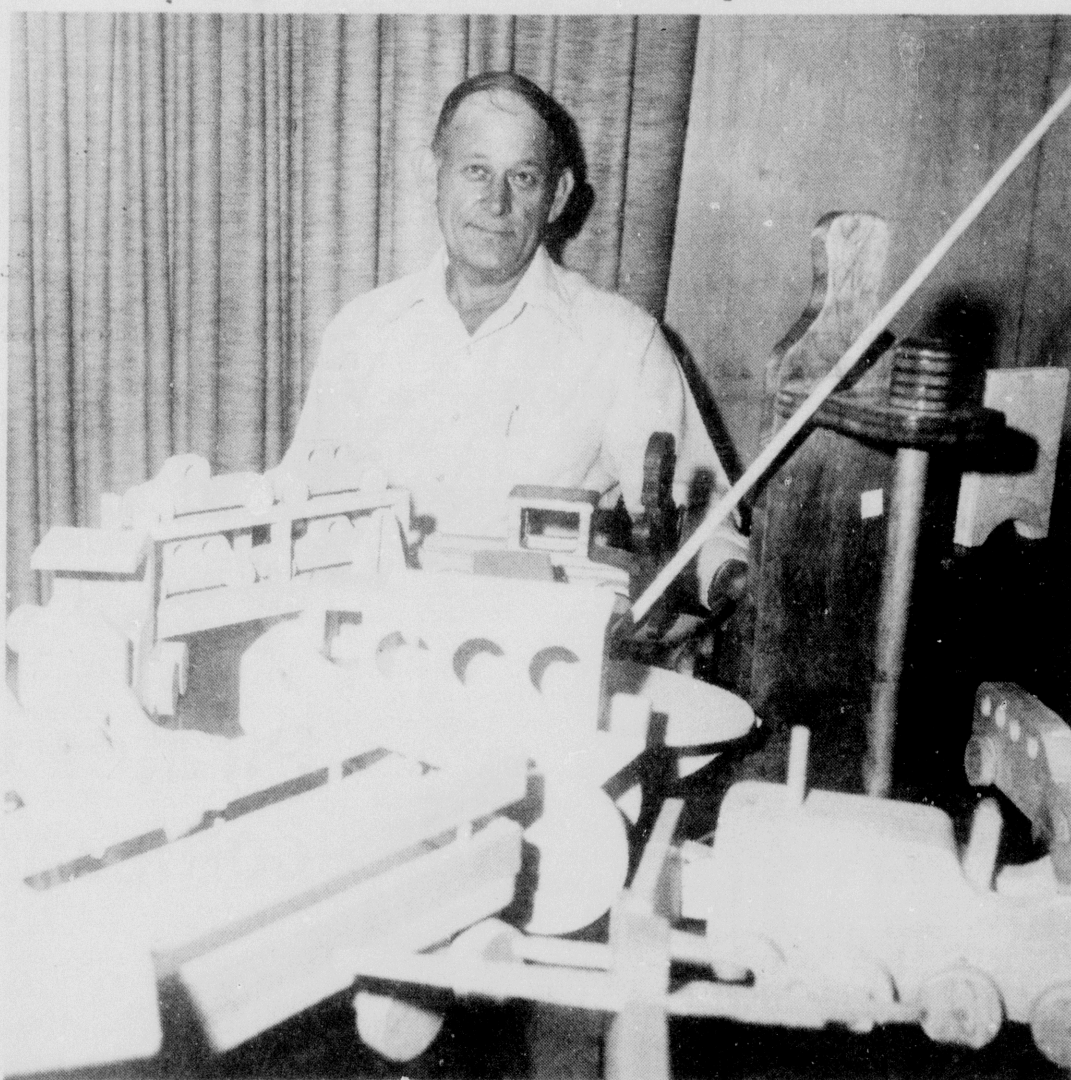

"Woodworking is just a pastime," Richter said. "There's not too much profit in it."

Nevertheless, he manages to make some money by selling his work at flea markets (such as the Old Georgetown Market on April 19) and at the Guarantee Electric store.

He noted that it's not too expensive to set up a wood workshop.

"Mine cost about $750," Richter said. He said it's necessary to have a table saw, band saw, drill press, sander, lathe and small hand tools.

The most difficult items he's

BEN RICHTER
... toymaker and woodworker

ever made were the cabinets for two antique-looking chime clocks.

The wood was imported from Brazil and the clockworks were shipped in from Germany.

For the materials he needed,

Richter paid just $100, and ended up giving his son and daughter as quality a timepiece as they'd find anywhere.

Richter said that the most tedious work he does is with dominoes.

"Each domino, for example, has to be handled 23 different times — for cutting and sanding — before it's finished. With 28 dominoes to the deck, I'd say that that is my most particular work."

'Benji' songwriters nominated for Oscar

When the Academy Awards are presented this Tuesday, Mrs. George B. McCrary of Georgetown will have more than a casual interest in who receives the coveted Oscar for the best song featured in a motion picture.

Her daughter and son-in-law, Euell and Betty Box, wrote "I Feel Love," the title and theme for the movie, "Benji." That song is up for an Academy Award this year, Mrs. McCrary said.

"The Oscar nomination itself will no doubt bring offers for Euell and Betty to write songs for more movies," she explained.

"And if they happen to win the Academy Award, who knows how far they might go!"

Euell and Betty Box now live in Dallas. Euell is a former Georgetown resident. He grew up here, graduated from Georgetown High School, and attended Southwestern University for three years.

"I Feel Love" was written in 1973. It was sung in the movie, "Benji," by Charlie Rich, and variations of the song were used as the background music for the movie.

Euell and Betty Box received a Golden Globe Award for the song this year.

Spain family gets promotions

Mrs. Rowena Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Spain, who has been a teacher for a number of years in Elementary Schools of Round Rock; an Elementary School Principal in Taylor, and for the past two years has been curriculum coordinator for the Round Rock schools, was appointed assistant School Superintendent at the last meeting of the Round Rock School Board. The announcement was made by Mr. Noel Grisham, Round Rock School Superintendent.

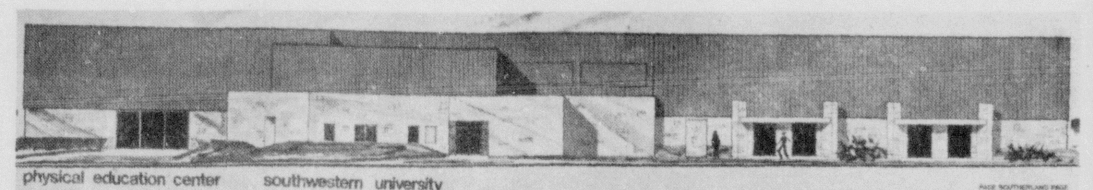

Mrs. Stone received her B.A. degree from Southwestern University, her M.A. degree from S.W.T.S.U. at San Marcos, and did post graduate work at Texas University.

Cecil Spain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spain, who has been with the Steck-Vaughn Co. of Austin for the past 10 years, serving as editor and then sales director, was recently elected a vice-president and a director. He has a B.A. degree from McMurry College and a M.A. degree from the University of South Carolina.

The Steck-Vaughn Co. is educational publisher and its books and materials are used in elementary and secondary schools throughout the nation. Specialties include supplementary materials in language arts and social studies. Sales increases last year are partially attributed to two new adult education products and two reading programs for elementary schools.

Spain makes frequent trips to all parts of the United States on sales marketing interviews. His latest venture was to Anchorage, Alaska where he spoke before a large group of teachers, presenting to them his company's full line of merchandise and methods.

Mrs. Cecil Spain, who for the past 16 years has been a choral director for the various schools where she has taught has been advanced to the office of Dean of Women at David Crockett High School in Austin where she has been teaching for the past 4 years. She too is a graduate of McMurry and SWSTU Colleges.

THE SID RICHARDSON FOUNDATION of Fort Worth pledged a $1 million grant to build the physical education center late in 1971. The grant is one of the largest single gifts in Southwestern University's $10 million Program for Progress which has also included grants to refurbish the historic Administration Building and Mood Hall.

S. U. trustees give go-ahead for Physical Education Center

Trustees of Southwestern University have decided to move ahead with the building of the new Richardson Physical Education Center on the Georgetown campus.

Construction is expected to begin within two weeks on the $1.9-million structure that will provide facilities for the expanding physical educational programs for both men and women students.

The building will include a gymnasium floor that will accommodate two full size basketball courts and that will seat 1, 500 spectators. There will also be a natatorium with an AAU-size swimming pool and spectator seats, three handball courts, training rooms, and women's and men's dressing rooms.

The two-story steel and masonry building will have 52,000 sq. ft. of floor space and will be completely heated and air conditioned.

The Richardson Physical Education Center will be located just across the street from the recently remodeled Jim West Gymnasium and outdoor swimming pool. The West Gym, nicknamed the "Cavern of Terror" by Southwestern fans, seats about 400 spectators.

The existing facilities, which had become extremely crowded in recent years, will continue to be fully utilized. The popular intramural programs, which include a tackle football league with full pads outdoors in the fall, has kept the gym busy until almost midnight many times this year.

An expanded physical education curriculum plus the growing intercollegiate and intramural programs for women have made the new facilities top priority in the Southwestern building program.

J. C. Evans Construction Co. of Austin will build the Richardson Physical Education Center and Page Southerland Page are the architects. The building is expected to be ready for use in about 14 months.

★ Programs for senior citizens

Services for over 60's
Senior Citizens Program Outreach Worker Polly Gilbert provides transportation for persons over 60. To receive free transportation to the doctor, to pay bills, to purchase groceries or other needs, call the Georgetown Neighborhood Center at 863-5010.

A telephone reassurance program with volunteers calling elderly persons who live alone in their homes each day has also been established in Georgetown.

According to Mrs. Ebeling, 10 volunteers are calling approximately 90 persons each day. More volunteers are needed for the program, she said.

Another important function of the Community Action Agency sponsored program for senior citizens is the dissemination of information and referral services. Volunteers and the outreach worker refer elderly persons with a problem to the agency which can help them.

Homestead Exemptions

Williamson County and the City of Georgetown give homestead tax exemptions to citizens reaching 65 years of age.

The homestead exemptions from the county and city reduce the senior citizen's assessed valuation on the tax rolls by $3000.

The exemption will amount to about a $50 difference in taxes. In order to claim the exemption, the senior citizen must live in the home on the tax rolls.

Social Security?

Social Security is the major source of income for 70 percent of the country's senior citizens. Yet the maximum social security benefit paid to a retired person is $304 per month. The minimum amount is $93.80.

Some persons receiving social security are eligible for Medicare insurance which helps cover medical and hospital costs. However, some persons (usually those from lower incomes who have not paid in as much social security) are required to pay premiums.

Senior citizens are allowed to receive annuities or retirement pensions without their social security checks being reduced. However, income over $2100 means a reduction in social security payments. Thus, the annual living allowance remains small for most citizens over 65.

SENIOR CITIZENS ACTIVITY GROUP — Alla Haynes (at machine) Willie Hall and Maude Harris (left) are busy piecing a quilt. The group meets each Thursday afternoon at San Gabriel Community Center to work on crafts or to play games. Activities are directed by Polly Gilbert, outreach worker for the Senior Citizens program in Georgetown. For further information or for a ride to the Thursday meeting, call the Georgetown Neighborhood Center-863-5010.

Get Social Security numbers early

Students, housewives, and other people planning to get holiday jobs should apply at once for a social security number if they don't have one, according to Ed Bowers, Social Security District Manager in Austin.

Applications from people who don't recall having had a social security number before generally are screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure a second number isn't issued to the same person. Screening takes time, so you should apply for your number several weeks before you need it.

Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life. You should only have one number.

Hailing Texas as a leader in economic development, the executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission told the Georgetown Rotary Club Friday that the economy is not nearly as bad as some make it out to be.

"If you've got something to sell, there's a market for it somewhere," James Harwell of the Industrial Commission said.

"But nothing is going to happen until somebody gets out there and starts selling your product."

Harwell said there is a "tremendous demand" for quality products, good workmanship, and devoted workers.

The executive director said that here in Texas, there are several products that are in demand all over the globe.

"First of all, there's food. The Great Plains of America is the most productive area in the world for supplying the food to feed people all over the world. But the fact is, somebody's got to get out there and sell it."

The reasons for the excellent food production here relate not only to the fertility of the soil or suitability of the climate, Harwell stated.

"We have the technology and the personal, private motivation — we call it free enterprise — necessary to produce more food than any other part of the world."

Other products in demand are manufactured goods, Harwell said.

He related the events that happened during a recent trip to the oil-rich Middle East.

Texas Industrial Commission officials went to Egypt and other countries to make contacts with government officials and urge them to use Texas companies and commodities in the Middle East.

He told the Rotary Club that the commission returned to Texas with about $25 million in contracts for Texas-based companies.

"The countries of the Middle East need American technology for family living, community living and food production," Harwell said.

He noted that one Texas firm ended up with a multimillion dollar contract to develop an entire farm and ranch process — including slaughtering and shipping — along the Nile River.

Other contracts resulting from the Mid-East excursion included an $8 million agreement for toilets and bathtubs, and several contracts for air conditioning, housing and construction, and engineers.

Harwell said that in the future, the developing Asian countries will need American technology to establish highway systems, schools and hospitals.

Nationwide, the unemployment rate is now 8.7 percent, Harwell said.

In Texas, however, the rate is just 5 percent, "and in many places, it's as low as 3 percent," he added.

"In Texas, we have the jobs and the natural resources necessary for continued economic development."

He urged the Rotary Club to look beyond the federal government's gloomy figures of economic chaos.

Harwell said that the number of new industries coming into Texas has slowed down considerably, but that many are interested in making the move.

During a typical week just a few years ago, for example, 7-10 new firms would relocate in Texas, he said.

That number has now dropped down to just 3 new companies a week, he added.

★ Hospital Authority

crease the city's indebtedness.

"We'll be going to the City Council and saying, 'We think that we'll need a tax basis of some kind in order to get this loan, but we know we can pay it off without using the tax money,'" Sloan said.

DR. DOUGLAS BENOLD, Hospital Authority member, noted that the loan that could be acquired from the FmHA would be repayable at 5 percent annual interest over 40 years.

The debt service each year on that note will be about $90,000 a year less than what would be paid if the bonds were sold on the commercial market, Dr. H. R. Gaddy, a Georgetown physician, said.

POTEETE EXPLAINED that if the voters say they'll stand ready to support the GHA proposal, then the city would sell revenue bonds totaling $2.95 million to generate money to build and equip a new Georgetown hospital.

The Farmers Home Administration, in that case, would agree to buy the bonds at a 5 percent interest rate, he said.

Poteete and Sloan will set up an appointment with FmHA officials in Temple this week to discuss the Hospital Authority's proposal and ask a representative of that federal agency to attend the City Council meeting.

The negotiations between the FmHA and the Hospital Authority have been stalled because of the "community participation" requirement for the loan.

This FmHA regulation states that, because the Hospital Authority does not have the power to tax, it must put up 25 percent of the loan requested for the new hospital.

DURING RECENT WEEKS, the Hospital Authority and the Georgetown doctors have discussed proposals to transfer the doctors' holdings — such as the existing hospital building, the proposed hospital site and the doctors' medical equipment — to the Hospital Authority.

In this way, the Hospital Authority would accumulate assets of $426,000, Sloan said, and would take over the revenues from the existing hospital.

However, even with the steady income, the Hospital Authority would still be $250,000 short of meeting the "community participation" requirement.

Hospital Authority members decided against proposals to sponsor fund-raising campaigns to get the needed money.

Instead, the authority decided to attempt to get the tax-backed guarantee.

IF THE CITY approves the hospital bond program, the city would take over the $426,000 in assets, Sloan said. And by the time the city would have to start repaying the debt, those assets would be about $525,000 — three times the amount the city would have to pay the FmHA in any one year.

At Thursday's meeting, the Hospital Authority discussed one other way to achieve the tax-backed guarantee on the debt — the creation of a hospital district.

That idea was opposed, however, as being even more complicated than the proposal to join hands with the city in supporting the hospital debt.

DURING THE SESSION, several encouraging points were brought out:

•The FmHA suggested that the Hospital Authority revise its construction figures because, the federal agency said, the price on the new hospital might have dropped as much as 8 percent.

The FmHA said there have been several changes in the construction business since the Georgetown Hospital bids were opened last fall.

•Colonel Sam Austin, the financial advisor for the new hospital, sent a letter to the Hospital Authority stating that the authority was probably too conservative in its figures on what its assets would be if the GHA takes over the doctors' investments.

Sloan said that his No. 1 concern in taking the hospital proposal to the voters is that it might be misunderstood.

"The fact is, there is very little chance that taxpayers will end up paying any money at all on the hospital debt," he said.

THE EXISTING Georgetown Hospital is owned by a group of Georgetown doctors, who hire an administrator to run the facility.

If the Georgetown Hospital Authority succeeded in building the new facility, the GHA would hire an administrator to run it.

If the city, through its voters, agrees to back up the debt with a tax-related guarantee, then the Georgetown Hospital Authority would be disbanded, because the City of Georgetown would own the hospital.

However, the City Council could appoint a board of directors to handle the new hospital's administration, Sloan said.

Massey exhibit at Fine Arts Gallery

The current exhibit in the Gallery of the Alma Thomas Fine Arts Center at Southwestern University features the works of Mildred Lavinia Massey, senior art student in the School of Fine Arts. The public may view the exhibit through April 20.

A reception honoring the artist will be held on Saturday, April 5, from 4 to 5 p.m. The public is invited.

Majoring in studio art with painting and drawing as areas of concentration and minoring in history of art, Miss Massey has exhibited annually during her collegiate career. The current exhibit includes 15 paintings, nine drawings, one wall-hanging, and one three-dimensional design. This mixed media show centers around the theme "Woman" and contains paintings in acrylics, egg tempera, collage and ink. The large wall-hanging is in acrylics and applique while the three-dimensional design is in wood, metal acrylics, and various other materials.

Miss Massey's interest in art began at an early age. When she was enrolled in the fifth grade in Fort Worth, the faculty selected her to study sculpture in the local museum. Her works are included in institutional and private collections.

Pirates drop conference game

Southwestern University's Pirates lost their first conference game of the season Wednesday as they dropped a contest to Texas Lutheran College 8-4 in Seguin.

Cousins Chris and Glenn Keller hit home runs and sophomore Bill Miller pitched a four-hitter for the Bulldogs to gain the victory.

Miller pitched no-hit ball through six innings while the Seguin team mounted a 7-0 lead.

Then Southwestern tried to come back as they scored four runs in the eighth inning boosted by a home run by Frank Rodriguez — but the rally fell short.

Gary Ivy started the game for the Bucs and was tagged with the loss.

Southwestern is now 3-1 for the conference and 20-14 for the season while TLC leads the Big State race with a perfect 3-0 record. Last year Southwestern and TLC tied for the conference crown and the Lutherans won a play-off to represent the conference in the NAIA play-offs.

"We're definitely still in the race in fact we're in exactly the same standings this season as we were at this time last year," says Coach Jim Mallon.

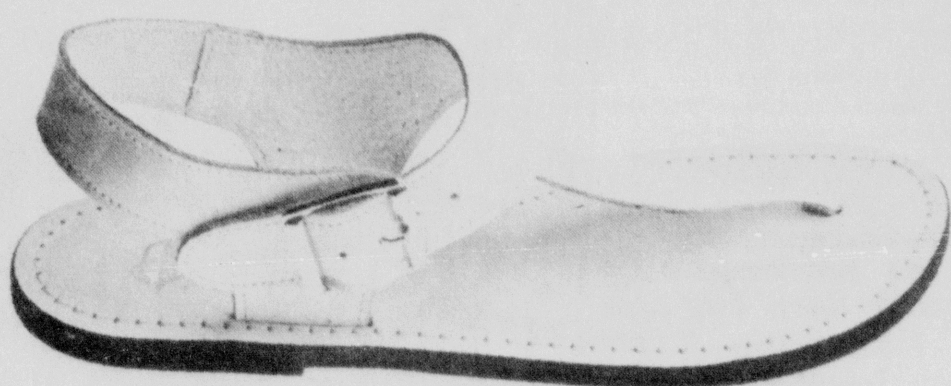

The Bulldogs played a practice game with Mary Hardin-Baylor Friday afternoon and take Trinity University Saturday afternoon in San Antonio.

'Kissing Disease' not very romantic

Infectious mononucleosis — often called just "Mono" — is a widespread ailment that mostly affects teenagers and young adults and is often found among college students.

Mono is quite accurately called the "Kissing Disease," reports the Texas Medical Association. Physicians observed 20 years ago that the disease was spread primarily by prolonged, passionate kissing.
